E. Quality Management & Quality Team

E.1 The IOAS has developed a quality system of documented policies, procedures, criteria and other related documents to assure and demonstrate that it adheres to the objectives listed above.

E.2 Ensure that these objectives are met is the responsibility of the ED.

E.3 The realisation and maintenance of these quality objectives is achieved through ensuring an understanding of IOAS quality objectives amongst all personnel, encouraging a quality culture throughout the organisation and by designation of senior personnel as responsible for the quality function.

E.4 The mechanism for carrying out this responsibility is the annual internal audit and management review (PL0106) and the management and staff performance reviews (PL0302).

E.5 A Quality Director (QD) is appointed by the ED and the duties of that person are described in a job description (PL0315). Other personnel may support the QD in performing these tasks. The QD reports through the ED to the BoD.

E.6 The QD shall ensure that the quality system has been effectively understood and implemented at all levels of the system. They shall do so by checking that all policies and procedures have been followed by staff, contracted personnel, committees and the BoD. They shall also check that training requirements have been met and that the training has provided to personnel the necessary understanding of the quality system.

E.7 The QD shall ensure that the procedures for ensuring that the quality policy is understood, maintained and implemented at all levels (PR0101) have been followed.

E.8 It is the function of the QD to ensure that the internal audit is carried out in a planned and systematic manner and according to the policies and procedures for these tasks.

E.9 The BoD may also designate quality responsibilities to a member of the BoD including participation in the internal audit.

E.10 It is the function of the Business Director (BD) to ensure that the performance reviews are carried out in a planned and systematic manner and according to the policies and procedures for these tasks.
